witnessed by only a few relatives and friends, was performed in St. Bartholo-new's Church by the Rev. Leighton Parks, the rector.

Directly after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. White left for the home of the bride in Lenox, where they will remain indefinitely.

Mr. White, who in applying for the license gave his age as seventy and his residence as Washington, has spent thirty years in the American diplomatic service. He was born in Balti-more, of an old Maryland family. Mrs. Sloane is a sister of Cornelius Vanderbilt. She has four children and was said to have been left a fortune when her husband died five years ago

She gave her age as sixty-eight.

John C. White, son of the bride-groom, is connected with the near eastern division in the State Department, and lives at his father's home here, 1229 19th street. He attended the wedding yesterday, in New York, and was back at his desk today. Mr. and Mrs. White are expected to come to washington soon, and to spend at least a part of the winter here: Senator and Mrs. Peter Goelet dere: Senator and Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry now are occupying the resi-dence of Mr. White, at 1624 Crescent place, which he built some years ago. It is considered one of the handsomest homes in the capital. This residence was occupied by the French mission, headed by Marshal Joffre, which visited Washington a little after the decla ration of war with Germany.

Remnants have been accumulating in a lively fashion lately, and tomorrow we close them out. Garments and accessories from our fall stocks—new goods, but in certain colors only—good styles but not a range of sizes! Remnants like this are real "finds" if you come across something to please, and there's no reason why you should not if you keep looking. Scores of garments—a lively remnant day in prospect.

> Style and Economy in Remnant Coats $75 to $85 Coats, $63.75

A most remarkable example of Remnant Coat values—the acme of fashion and tailoring in the finest coat fabrics of the season. Fur-trimmed or self-trimmed and offering the best in belted or coat-wrap styles. Frost-glo, Plumette. Gold-torre, Chamo, Suede Velour, Duvet de Laine and Bolivia make them offering a choice of the new winter colorings—Ming, Nankin and Pekin blues, Malay, Beaver and Reindeer browns, oxford, navy and black. Collars and trimmings of raccook, beaver, seal, nutria or opossum.

$58.50 Coats, $43.50 Suede Velour Coats, fully slik lined and made in smart belted atyles or with plaited panel at the back. Large raccoon collars make them especially attractive, contrasting well with the colors found—pine-needle, Nankin, reindeer, beaver, brown and navy.

$35 Coats, $27.75

Velour Coats in plain colors or heather mixtures, with plaited side panels, semi-fitted or in belted styles. All are silk lined and finely made; in navy, brown, green, Pekin, reindeer or oxford.

Hosiery Remnants $3.00 Silk Stockings, $1.65 Fine Full-fashloned Silk Stockings, with Ilsle garter tops and splendidly remrorced. Not all sizes are to be found, but the following colors: Black, white, cordovan, gold and suede.

$5.00 to $7.50 Stockings, $4.50

All-silk, full-fashioned Stockings, with em-broidered clocks, together with nandsome Lace Stockings. The lace styles come in black, cordovan, and white; those with clocks come in black, white, cordovan, suede and fawn clocked
